So what makes 'The Riverhead' so special?

The Riverhead's liquor licence was granted in 1857 which makes it New Zealand's second oldest licenced premises and there are great stories to tell about this place. It sits on the upper reaches of the Waitemata and has a dock which allows charter boats, jet boats and private boats to visit from central Auckland. Coupled with this it is only 25 minutes by car away from the central city on one of the most pleasant rural routes surrounded by rolling New Zealand countryside. It is the kind of place that people just love to come to. You can relax and spend quality time.

The Riverhead is more than just another Tavern.

It has great ambience. It is a very special New Zealand icon.

The inside décor has recently been extensively renovated.

It has a history we can be proud of and perhaps some of its history makes it even more colourful.
